ADVERTISING CONGRESS CONVENES AT DETROIT

C. King Woodbridge Asserts Product Has Widest of All World Markets.

CHURCH SURVEY IS TOLD

Detroit, July 9 (A.P.).—The World Advertising Congress, which convened here today, considered in more than s score of professional group meetings the problems of greater efficiency in advertising in America and abroad.

The tremendous force advertising has ome in the economic and social structures of all nations was emphasized in his keynote adoress to the International Advertising Association ses tion by President C. King Woodbridge, who declared that advertising has the widest of all world markets."

Thorough and practical courses in advertising in universities and colleges the world over were urged by W. F. G. Thacher, head of the advertising department of the University of Oregon, addressing the educational department of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World. Such courses, he said, would be of great value to young men and women who plan to enter the advertising field.

York, placed the burden of responsibility for religious education upon the church to "promote religion through advertising."

Dr. Stelzle cited figures to show that religion has been "very effectively sold to the American people," but that "the American people are not sold on the church to the same extent."

He quoted from a report of a newspaper poil recently conducted by the Church Advertising Department of the Church Advertising Department of the International Advertising Association, in more than 200 cities. "There is no command in the Scriptures for the unconverted men to go to church," said the speaker. "Neither is there any law in a democracy which compels him to do so. This means that the burden of responsibility is upon the church and upon those who are interested in promoting religion."

The advertising commission, consisting of one representative of each of the organizations which make up the International Association, this afternoon elected P. F. O'Keefe, Boston, as chairman, William Donohue, Chicago, vice thairman, and Col. H. H. Burdick, Detroit, secretary.

Two Women Granted Divorces in Rockville

Judge Robert B. Peter, sitting in equity court at Rockville yesterday, handed down a final decree for divorce to Catherine D. Merson from Blake D. Merson, both of Montgomery County. Her maiden name, Catherine Dorothy Veitt, was restored to her. In her petition for divorce filed several weeks ago, she charged misconduct with other women and desertion. She was represented by Harold C. Smith, Rockrepresented by Harold C. Smith, Rock ville attorney.

Judge Peter also handed down a final decree in the case of Ethel M. W. Thompson against Clyde F, Thompson, in which she sued for complete divorce, custody of their baby and alimony custody of their baby and almony. She was successful in the three petitions. The amount of alimony was set by Judge Peter at $25 per month. Kenneth Lyddane, Rockville attorney, represented Mrs. Thompson.

Motor Speed Zone Cut To Safeguard Workmen

Overnight transformation of Mas sachusetts avenue's 30-mile-an-hour speed zone extending from W street northwest to Wisconsin avenue into a 15-mile area is not the work of a practical joker who merely changed signs. Quite the contrary, it is entirely official.

The reduction, by half, in the speed allowed on the thoroughfare was inaugurated yesterday by traffic authorities due to the construction work now under way there. At the high speed hitherto permitted, workmen engaged in laying the grade for the curb on the north side of the street were endangered. The old limit will be reestablished as soon as the work is completed.

Calls from several motorists yes

Etiquette went by the boards when the heat and humidity steamed into Police Court yesterday. Taking pity on the sweltering witnesses, lawyers and court attendants, Judge John P. At Ninth and Emerson streets the heat caused the pavement to rise like fresh bread in an oven. The phenomenon attracted many spectators.

Chicago, July 9.—Miss Jane Ayerhart, of Oak Park, is willing to make affidavits that the weather has been hot in Chicago. She essayed to cross Sheridan road. She stepped into the asphalt street and stopped precipitately. So did long lines of north-bound traffic.

"All right, lady, let's go!" yelled the chauffeurs.

"I can't," said the panicky Miss Ayerhart. "I cant move my feet."

Perry Ross, Northwestern football star, and Joseph Salzer, another athlete, taking a running start, hurled themselves over the oozy pavement to the marooned victim. They untied her shoes, lifted her out of them, carried her to the curb and then went back and rescued her shoes.

Aurora Borealis and Rain in Torrents Hit Canada

Winnipeg, Manitoba, July 9 (A.P.).
Electrical storms, torrential rains and aurora borealis have combined to disrupt the normaley of life in the central areas of Canada during the past 24 hours.

For most of the forenoon Winnipeg had only partial telegraphic communication with the outside world.

Washington motorists will be spared the necessity of equipping their cars with parking lights if Maj. Edwin B. way. Hesse yesterday recommended to the Commissioners that they abolish the traffic regulation requiring such lights when automobiles are parked at the view that the streets of the Capital are sufficiently well lighted to render the lights unnecessary. In addition to that he thinks that the rule is difficult to enforce, Sunday night on a tour of had only partial telegraphic communication with the outside world.

Railway schedules were delayed on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway as the result of a cloudburst near Ingolf, Ontario, which washed out trackage and deralled a freight train of 22 cars. Another freight train derailment at Biscotasing, Ontario, east of Chapleau, brought down a number of telegraph poles and disrupted communication east and west. It is expected that it will require about 26 hours to repair the damage to the tracks in the cloudburst zone.

Rainfall ranging from an inch to 3.28 inches was reported from prairie points.

NEITHER IS SATISFACTORY J. F. MALLEY SPEAKER

Chicago, July 9 (A.P.).—Two minority parties, the Prohibition and Farmer-Labor, meet here tomorrow to name candidates and adopt platforms for the national election this fall.

While neither Gov. Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic presidential nominee, nor Herbert Hoover, Republican standard bearer, suits the Prohibitionists, the party may indorse Hoover to defeat Smith, said Dr. D. Leigh Colvin, chairman of the national committee. Otherwise it will select candidates from the Democratic South, hoping to reduce the New York governor's strength, or choose its own ticket without regard to the majority parties' selections. Miami, Fla., July 9 (A.P.).—Pleading for the creation within the organization of an institution that would mold into deeds beneficial to mankind "the generous impulses and lofty ideals of our order," John F. Malley, of Boston, retiring grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, opened the sixty-fourth annual convention of the association with an address here tonight.

Declaring that "we are here to lay the foundation of a temple of philanthropy with a dome so vast that it will cover the entire Nation," Mr. Malley announced the proposed establishment of a permanent endowment fund which eventually, he said, would accumulate to such proportion that the into deeds beneficial to mankind "the the Prohibitionists became a national group in 1872.

Colvin called Smith a "great vote getter" and declared it will "take a fight to beat him."
"We are not satisfied with Hoover," the prohibition leader continued. "We regard him merely as a moderate dry. His stand is not sufficiently aggressive." Besides prohibition the platform of the dry group will deal with all national and international subjects affected by politics. The Farmer-Labor platform, however, according to Charles G. Shirley, of Chicago, one of the leaders, will deal only with "pertinent topics," farm relief, development of public utilities, use of injunctions in labor disputes, and possible prohibiton. New Bedford, Mass., July 9 (A.P.).—
Claiming victory in the first test of their strike, now in the thirteenth week, 28,000 operatives from 27 textile mills in this city were more determined than ever tonight not to submit to a 10 per cent wage reduction.

With 400 city police on duty at mill gates and 90 national guardsmen held in reserve at vantage points, nearly all of the striking employes answered a request of the mill officials that they return to work this morning with strong picket lines and reiterated declarations that they would not accede to the wage cut. ton.

Drowning Certificate Refused at Brussels; Will Rejected for Present by Court.

Brussels, July 9 (A.P.).—The accident hypothesis, in connection with the disappearance of Alfred Loewenstein, seems to be the most logical, declared Judge de la Rumiere, who presided at the investigation today. He declined, however, to give a death certificate in Belgium, as the accident occurred in an English plane in French territorial waters, thus rendering the Belgian authorities incompetent. Those aboard the Loewenstein plane when its owner went to his death testified at the hearing as to the circumstances within their knowledge of the tragedy. Their testimony was similar to that aiready given at a previous inquiry, that the banker was aboard the plane and that he disappeared.

London Interest Revived.

London, July 9 (A.P.).—Interest in the mysterious circumstances surrounding the case of Capt. Alfred Loewenstein, internationally known Belgian financier, was revived today with publication of an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Dunkirk saying that a fisherman on the French coast had seen a parachute fall from the skies about the time the Loewenstein plane was crossing the English Channel. This dispatch was without confirmation.

The fisherman was quoted as saying that he did not bother confirmation.

dispatch was without confirmation.

The fisherman was quoted as saying that he did not bother about the accident as he saw a boat near the place where the parachute came down.

In aviation circles, where the report was discussed, it was asserted it would have been quite possible for Capt.

Loewenstein to leave the plane without being detected by members of the crew, providing that the door of the plane was open.

Mack predicted that Smith would sweep New York State in November, and that his views on prohibition largely would be responsible. One other national committeeman who called on the governor during the day—Scott Ferris, of Oklahoma—also was optimistic.

He was of the opinion the Democrats would capture his home State without difficulty.

Cassidy's bullet-riddled body was found in a lonely hillside spot at Altadena, according to the story of Donald McIntyre, who was walking in the Altadena foothills at 9:30 o'clock last night. The murderers evidently gave Cassidy permission to fall to his knees for a short prayer before they shot him.
McIntyre said he saw a shadowy group across the vacant field. One man was kneeling. Then a volley rang out and other men leaped into an automobile and sped off.
Nicholas Masser, 46, was arrested on the charge that he had warned Cassidy to "keep your mouth shut or get bumped off."

State Department Still Ignorant of Decision on Kellogg Peace Treaty.

SIGNING BY SECRETARY ON JULY 14 IS SCOUTED

Belgium Examining Papers; Chamberlain Assures Speed in Answering Note.

The reports in Paris that signatur of the treaty renouncing war could proceed at any time desired by Secretar, Kellogg seemed a little premature yes terday in view of the fact that the Stat Department has heard nothing on the subject, formally or informally from the various governments or their amdors in this country.

State Department officials were not nclined to speculate as to the suggesinclined to speculate as to the suggestion in the Paris dispatches that Secretary Kellogg would visit Paris to participate in a general ceremony in connection with signing of the treaty. Obviously, it was said, the Bastile day date, July 14, mentioned in the Paris dispatch, was out of the question since there has been no preliminary exchange, and there is not now time to arrange a ceremony. arrange a ceremony.

The department made public without comment a message from Ambassador Gibson at Brussels quoting the sador Gibson at Brussels quoting the Belgian foreign minister as having told the chamber of deputies that the government was examining the American antiwar treaty project "with the most lively and most friendly attention," and the hope that it would soon result in "a new guarantee of international order and peace."

Some of the diplomatic representatives now in Washington have indicated to the Secretary their expectation of an early reply from their governments which would permit discussion of details as to the ceremony of signing the document. So far as known at the State Department, however, none of the embassies has yet been officially advised on the subject nor has there been any exchange between the American diplomats abroad and the respective governments on that question.

Paris Ready to Sign

Paris, July 9 (A.P.) .- The pact out lawing war can be signed any time that Secretary of State Kellogg wishes, that Secretary of State Kellogg wisnes, official circles intimated today. The fourteenth of July, the great French holiday, has been suggested in Paris, but there has been no discussion of this detail with Washington.

The impression is abroad here that Secretary Kellogg himself would come over for the ceremony, but the foreign office is unaware of any definite plans concerning this.

Chamberlain Seeks Speed.

London, July 9 (A.P.) .- Sir Austin Chamberlain, foreign secretary, assured the house of commons today that there would be no unnecessary loss of time in replying to the latest American note on the antiwar pact.

When Ernest Thurtle, Laborite, intimated what he termed the government's procrastination was causing considerable disappointment throughout the country. Sir Austen replied that this appeared to be rather an expression of opinion than a fact.

"But," he added, "in my view it is more important that his majesty's government should be careful when undertaking new engagements not to break their old ones than to proceed without reference to the serious nature of the questions involved."

Consultations with the dominions, the foseign secretary explained, were by no means yet complete.

Nation's Wealth Falls 96 Cents Per Capita

Americans are 96 cents poorer per capita this year than they were last year, but they are $5.60 richer than they were in 1914.

Treasury records made public yesterday show that the per capita wealth of the United States based on an estimated population of 118,364,000 on June 30, the end of the 1928 fiscal year, was $40.52, compared with $41.48 for 1927 and McCoy, the personal representative of President Coolidge, is the head as supervisor of the coming Nicaraguan election, had decided that neither of the two conservative factions had established its right to be recognized as representing the party to the exclusion of the other.

At the same time the board announced it give sympathetic consideration to any plan which would enable the party to participate in the election and that it would deal with both factions in considering such a plan.

The factions are headed by Adoifo Diaz, the precent president of Nicaragua, with Alejandro Cardenas as secretary, and Emiliano Chamorro, who precipitated the revolution, which led the United States to send Marines to Nicaragua, with Ismael Solorzano as secretary. The two factions held separate conventions in Managua May 20, the Diaz faction nominating Carlos cuardo Pasos, and the Chamorro faction naming Vincente Rappachioli as its candidate.

Gen. McCoy, in a statement after the decision of the board was announced, referred the impartiality of the United States as between parties and factions and expressed the hope that both parties, the liberal and conservative, would participate in the election.

Loss of appetite only a symptom

It is a known fact that when one's system gets "run-down," they haven't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Your physician will tell you that lowered vitality is the re-sult of an insufficient supply of red blood cells—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body. Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beauti-ful, healthy women.

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again; sleep soundly; solid flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong: and your nerves become strong; and your nerves become steady.

107 RADIO STATIONS OPPOSE REVOCATION OF THEIR LICENSES

Broadcasters Facing Loss of Permits August 1, Appear to Protest.

SOCIALIST LEADER DEMANDS FREE SPEECH

(Associated Press.)

Faced with revocation of their broadcasting licenses on August 1 because the Federal Radio Commis has held that their stations were no being operated to the best advantage of the public, representatives of 107 radio stations appeared before the commission yesterday to protest against

The remainder of the 162 stations cited on May 25 as not serving the "public interest, convenience or necessity" failed to send representatives, and the commission interpreted this as evidence of their willingness to drop out of the broadcasting band without a fight.

Norman Thomas, candidate for the presidency on the Socialist ticket, representing the Eugene V. Debs memorial station WeVD at Woodhaven, N. Y., filed a brief with the commission, declaring that destruction of this station would be "unthinkable and un-American".

Claims Right of Speech.

Probably the most militant of those opposing abolition of the stations, Thomas, basing his argument on the doctrine of free speech, challenged the right of the commission to revoke the locar-section.

"If WEVD is taken off the air and "If WEVD is taken off the air and in fact is not treated on a parity with others who are richer and more influential with the Government," he declared, "the people of this Nation can truly recognize that radio, which might be such a splendid force for the honest clash of ideas, is nothing but a tool to be used by the powerful against any form of disagreement or any species of protest."

Yesterday's proceedings consisted o roll call of the transmitters whos licenses were ordered revoked and in preparation of a docket for the hear-ings which will be held during the re-mainder of the month.

Many Petitions Submitted.

Petitions, containing thousands of signatures, letters, telegrams and bundles of affidavits teatifying to the service rendered by the cited stations poured into the commission's offices during the day.

Some of the operators volunteered to consolidate with other stations in their reinitiate with other stations in their vicinities, but most of them declined aggressively to take any such course when asked if this would be satisfactory to them, and indicated they would take their cases to the courts in event their sets were judged unworthy of licenses.

E. F. Peffer, station KGDM, Stock-on, Calif., was the first operator called o show cause why his license should not be revoked. He was the only one of the five Pacific Coast men whose icenses were revoked who registered an appearance.

He said his station was the only one available to the 85,000 people in his region during its morning and early afternoon broadcasting hours and untroduced patitions. ntroduced petitions asking continua-ion of the station.

Backed By Labor Leaders.

Besides presenting a brief, the case r the socialist station WEVD wa verbally by Thomas and G. August Gerber, secretary of the Debs Memorial Radio Fund, Inc. They termed the station an unique one which supplied the freedom of the air to speakers who otherwise would not be able to broadcast. Thomas said it tation to further his candidacy, but station to further his candidacy, but said that where great issues are to be discussed he wanted the public to hear all sides of the discussion. If the air is used by his party, he added, equal shares of time will be allotted to candidates of all parties.

He questioned the effect on the public mind resulting from the fact that large manufacturers are allowed to keep their stations while WEVD has been ordered shut down, and said he was "not sure that the closing of our station would not be political propagands of a powerful sort."

Gerber offered a great number of petitions from labor leaders, including one from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, asking that the station be retained.

Postoffice Receives 5 Ocean Mail Bids

Five bids were received yesterday by Assistant Postmaster General Glover for carriage of ocean mail. The bids were necessitated by the new Merchant Marine Act.

The American and South African line offered to carry mail in class six ships between New York, Cape Town and South African points for $2.50 a nautical mile. The Export Steamship Corporation, of New York, bid $2.50 a nautical mile for mail between New York, the Mediterranean and the Black Sea. The Munson Steamship Line bid $8 a nautical mile for mail between New York and Buenos Aires in class 3 ships. The New York & Portor-Rico Line offered to carry mail in class 5 ships between New York, San Juan and San Domingo for $4 a nautical mile.

Promotions to Fill Diplomatic Vacancies

(Associated Press.)

Vacant diplomatic posts in Bulgaria and Salvador are to be filled by promotions within the foreign service personnel group. Names of the two new ministers have been transmitted for approval to the two governments and announcement of the appointments will be made by President Coolidge at the summer White House as soon as approval is received from the Bulgarian and Salvadorean governments.

The assignments are in the nature of transfers and it is understood that one of the new ministers at least will go from an important consular post to his new diplomatic task.

THE FARM PROBLEM.

There are indications that despite the vociferous outcry of those who "farm the farmers," the agricultural issue will be moot between the Republican and Democratic parties. The Republicans at Kansas City refused definitely and unmistakably to indorse the equalization fee provisions of the McNary-Haugen bill. The Democrats at Houston put more words into their platform as the result of which the professional farmers talked of the great triumph they had won. Word comes now from Albany that Gov. Smith has not the slightest intention of going beyond the party platform in his discussion of the farm problem and that he certainly does not intend to pledge himself to the equalization fee.

The situation threatens to leave the clamorous McNary-Haugenites without a resting Their insistence during the last two sessions of Congress that the agricultural interests would be satisfied with nothing but the McNary-Haugen bill made little impression upon the two conventions. The congressional support which the nostrum obtained is, therefore, directly disowned by the two parties as a whole. The farm agitator has failed in his effort to play one party against the other. The equalization fee continues to have no sponsors save those who see in it the hope of personal advantage.

The agitators evidently hoped to read into the somewhat broader language of the Democratic platform indorsement of their scheme. They announced immediately after the Houston convention that the Democrats had given them what they wanted. The leaders of that party do not agree with them. They do not want to carry the burden of the equalization fee into a national campaign. It is open to question whether the acceptance of the equalization fee would gain Democratic votes in the agricultural areas. It is a certainty that any such step would reduce support in every State not directly in the corn belt. Democratic strategy this year calls for supreme effort in the East, and there can be no mistaking the quality of the opposition in that section to the McNary-Haugen bill.

The decision to have nothing to do with the Marxian proposal is, therefore, not only sound economics but good politics. Neither party can hope to be all things to all men. Sectional noise must not be mistaken for national sentiment. Any effort to capitalize limited revolt is likely to prove costly over a far wider area. A fallacious doctrine which has been rejected by both national conventions will hardly yield political profit during the campaign.

LIOUOR AND THE LEAGUE.

Doubtless in other respects also, the mandated territories which are under the control of the Permanent Mandates Commission of the League of Nations, are providing problems in the enforcement of the conditions under which the mandates are administered but the matter which is foremost just now is to secure the rigid enforcement of the liquor provision. Slavery and traffic in liquor are alike banned in the mandated regions, but it has been found that it takes more than the flat of the League of Nations to effect the end sought. Violation of the liquor provision which represents the first attempt to effect international control of the liquor traffic in any direction. seems to have been honored chiefly in its vio lation.

The commission is seeking the causes for the increase in the importation of spirituous beverages into the mandated territories, particularly under B mandates, which include the former German Pacific Islands. The league has already been looking into the subject of the increased traffic in liquor in the territories and is now seeking to ascertain what legislation and police measures are being employed by the countries which are intrusted the mandates. Thus far the situation seems to have developed slight sympathy with this restriction upon the power of the respon sible countries, and extreme difficulty in dealing with the matter at all. The League of Nations, therefore, has on its hands a prohibition question which offers the problem familiar enough in this country-that of enforcement.

"MONKS' HOSTEL."

Ever since the making of one famous plea there has been in this country an affection not unmingled with respect for the small college. So, one finds, it is in England also. Here is Magdalene College, Cambridge, observing the other day the 500th anniversary of its foundation, proud of its record, and attracting back to its courts and hall for the great celebration distinguished sons, who take pride in the long history of their alma mater and of the part she has played in English life. Yet dalene is but a small college, with a meager endowment, lying beyond the river and on the outskirts of the university, rejoicing that it can still keep its master and its fellows and its 180 undergraduates, and actually planning in its 501st year to raise the wherewithal for the erection of a beautiful new court.

Magdalene College owes its origin to that wise rule of the Benedictines which required that a certain quota of the members of each monastery should be sent to a university to study. Provision for the carrying out of this obligation was made early at Oxford in Gloucester House, which has since become Worcester College, but in 1428 a site for a hostel in Cambridge for monks from Crowland was obtained by Abbott Lytlyngton from the guardians of the then 6-year-old king, Henry VI. Soon the Crowland men were joined by students from Ely, Walden and Ramsey. Each monastery built its own set of rooms, and thus there came into being the institution long known as Monks' Hostel. Its occupants had their own fish ponds and their own brew house. They attended the university lectures. out were, of course, subject to the rules of their own order and, as Fuller informs us, were "every year eminent, as living cheaper, privater and freer from the temptations of he town."

On the dissolution of the monasteries under Henry VIII, Monks' Hostel was in grave danger. It would, in fact, have perished but for the action of Thomas, Lord Audley, who reconstituted it as a college proper of the university, and dedicated it to St. Mary Magdalene, or Maudleyn, as that word was then written and pronounced.

Magdalene College, Cambridge, has played its own part in history. It was its master, John Peachell, who was also vice chancellor of the university, that precipitated the angry religious struggle in the reign of King James II, by refusing to Alban Francis-who, of all things, was a Benedictine monk-the degree of master of arts, unless the oaths were first taken. The situation was sufficiently ironical. but it bore great events in its train.

Magdalene College is not without special interest to Americans. The proposed new court is to have a gateway and lecture room, donated by 250 alumni of Harvard in honored memory of Henry Dunster, graduate of Magdalene and first president of Harvard University, and, as a special tribute to the occasion, President Lowell, of Harvard, was made an honorary fellow of the old college on the Cam.

This old college appears to be a place of happy memories and to inspire in its alumni deep and lasting devotion,

A SALUTARY LESSON.

The $500 fine imposed by the Department of Commerce upon Bert Acosta, well-known pilot, for violation of the air commerce regulations should serve to impress upon other aviators that these regulations, designed to protect life and property, are meant to be respected. For months Acosta has been involved in one escapade after another culminating finally in a 90-day suspension of his pilot's license for dangerous stunting over the Chicago municipal airport. Before the suspension period had been concluded, Acosta attempted a "wing-over," one of the most difficult stunts in flying, with two passengers over Curtiss Field, and crashed. It is for this escapade that the $500 fine is imposed.

The Department of Commerce was made responsible for safeguarding and guiding the development of civil aviation in the United States, because of insistent public demand that the Government interest itself in the matter. Its most important work thus far has been the drafting and establishing of the air commerce regulations by which qualifications of pilots are established and the airworthiness of civilian and commercial aircraft is inspected and certified to. The department has police power to enforce the regulations. Its inspectors regularly examine aircraft and pilots, and the department is empowered to condemn ships, if unairworthy, and revoke pilots' licenses should they defy provisions of the regu-

Bert Acosta's pilot's license expired June 15. The department has not indicated what course it will pursue should he apply for a renewal at an early date. Without a license, Acosta can not fly licensed aircraft either "solo," with friends as passengers or with passengers and cargo for hire. It should be renewed only after he has indicated satisfactorily that he has learned a lesson.

It is probably fortunate for civil and commercial aviation in the United States that this case has come up at the present time. Acosta is hardly to be pitied. His prominence should have made him think twice before he deliberately maneuvered airplanes contrary to the express provisions of the regulations. aviators, those making their first "solo" flights and those of ability and standing as unquestioned as Acosta's, should be impressed by the fate that befell him. The day of stunting in civil and commercial aircraft is past. The United States Government is going about the task of safeguarding the life of the airplaneusing public with dispassionate earnestness.

WOMEN VOTERS.

Politicians of both parties will be faced this year, as they have been since 1920, with the problem of the women's vote. It is as yet an unknown quantity in national elections. In two campaigns that have passed since suffrage was granted statistics show that only between 35 and 40 per cent of the eligible women voted. It is, nevertheless, true that women hold a power at the ballot box equal almost to that of men. Figures prepared by Simon Michelet show that in the coming election there will be 29,615,041 eligible women voters, a total only 200,000 below the number of men in possession of the franchise.

There are some sections and several States in which the women voters outnumber the men. In the New England States, for instance, more women have the right of suffrage than men. The same situation obtains in the Middle Atlantic section. Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and Maryland are among the States in which feminine domination at the ballot box is possible.

These matters loom large, of course, in the political calculations of both parties. Leaders everywhere are anxious to bring out the women voters and into the parties which they represent. They are, at times, alarmed at the possibilities that are contained in the dormant women voters who have as yet failed to take advantage of the right to vote. They would much rather get them actively interested in politics, where they could be classified, than hanging as an unknown quantity over all of their settled calculations.

It will, of course, remain for the election to been in bringing about the active participation of women. There are indications that this year may serve to increase the total of such voters considerably. The Republicans count on the relationship which Secretary Hoover established with the women of the country during the war to bring many of them within the party fold. The Democrats believe that the human qualities of their candidate will have a similar effect. The women leaders themselves will, however, be the most important factor. If the women who have already entered politics can stimulate interest in and knowledge of politics among their associates the number of women voters ought to be considerably in JURY REFORM.

Two years ago the Merchants Association of New York City inaugurated a campaign to reform the jury system so that a higher type of juror might be obtained. The campaign has made scant headway. This week, however, the association addressed a letter to the New York State Crime Commission, which soon will begin a series of conferences looking toward preparation of its 1929 legislative program, petitioning it to lend its authority and influence to the undertaking. The letter recites the opinion of prosecutors and officials that jurors of higher type than now are to be found would assure more just application of the law. The letter also answers the question of why so many business men attempt to evade jury duty, explaining in detail what it calls 'vexatious delays, humiliating experiences and unreasonable annoyances, to which jurors and talesmen are subjected.

It is hardly fair to level criticism against the courts or the American legal system in this respect. The jury system of trial by law is fundamental in the American Government. The system as it exists today is the outgrowth of customs and procedure that found their birth with the foundation of the country. Conditions have changed and the system has not changed with them. Today the average citizen is a busy individual, living the hours of the day by routine schedule. A call for jury duty upsets this schedule and has become a thing to be evaded, if possible.

Under the system existing today, says the association, there are summoned into court each day, or at least at the start of each trial, men whose services are needed that day or perhaps during the whole court term. Talesmen and jurors, it says further, frequently are subjected to needless delay. Another cause for complaint is the length and character of examinations to which talesmen, particularly in criminal cases, are subjected to determine their qualifications. Yet another objection to jury service is based on the arbitrary attitude of certain court attendants, who at times are guilty of the grossest incivility.

The association suggests that the New York State Crime Commission undertake a thorough examination of the present jury system "with a view to simplifying and modernizing both law and procedure in such manner as will tend to attract a better class of citizens to jury service." No more fruitful field could be found in which to conduct an investigation promising to improve the American judicial system.

FRANCE'S DIVORCE MILL.

Several months ago France announced that her divorce courts were no longer to be imposed upon by wealthy foreigners. It had become common gossip in Paris and throughout the world that French justice offered easy and quick facilities by which marital ties might be dissolved. The French legal system itself was not at fault. Application of it had become surrounded with trickery and evasion. French divorce lawyers had learned how to bend the law to serve their purposes and were growing wealthy upon the fees of foreigners to whom the cost of a divorce was the least consideration.

Then an American motion picture actress announced publicly that she was sailing to France to obtain a divorce, and the French courts took notice. There were certain residence rules that would have had to be evaded had a divorce been granted in this case. The decree was refused, and public announce ment was made that from that time on Americans, to obtain divorces in French courts, would have to establish beyond doubt their right to appear in court. The American divorce industry that had grown to staggering proportions in Paris immediately slumped.

Now it appears that the end was not written with the earlier announcement. For months the ministry of justice has been investigating apparent irregularities in the granting of French divorces to Americans. · Suspicion was aroused when it was noticed that many American divorce applications found their way to the same court to be dealt with by the same registrar. Further inquiries showed that unusual facilities had been granted in this court for proving of residence and that 40 petitioners were registered as residing at an identical address. As a result of the investigation eight lawyers, three process servers and one court clerk are said to be involved in a divorce mill scandal and a number of lawyers are facing disciplinary action.

The average American looks with sympathy upon the French campaign to clean up the divorce courts. Rarely indeed are justifiable circumstances to be found for taking divorce petitions to foreign courts. Those married in the United States are provided with satisfactory facilities in their own country with which to dissolve the union, provided there are justifiable grounds for the dissolution. Americans. who would be the first to show displeasure should French husbands and wives, involved in marital troubles carry them across the ocean to American divorce courts, will applaud the action of the French authorities.

The Southwestern Cotton Council plans to raise a fund of $750,000 a year for the next five years by levying a 5-cent tax on every bale of cotton produced in the South, with which to promote and advertise the cotton industry. Its four objectives are: To stabilize the price and production of cotton, to coordinate the work of existing agencies functioning with that objective in view. to conduct a study of the industry from the standpoint of supply and demand, and to disseminate information that will enable farmers to produce their crop at a profit. When a man determines to help himself out of trouble, it is a pretty good sign that he will succeed. With agricultural relief still a frequently discussed question, it is significant to note that an important branch of agriculture is embarking upon a program of self-help, the only sort of determine just how successful the leaders have | program that ever could hold hope of relief.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Inauguration Plans. To the Editor of The Post-Sir: Out of an experience gained by a part in national campaigns and inaugurals, I wish to most heartily approve not only a return to the good oldfashioned inauguration in 1929, but earnestly advocate a proper observance of the 4th of March in every State of the Union.

It will not only bring together in the Nation's Capital hosts of people, young and old, from every section of the country, who otherwise might never ome here but, in this day of radio, will make possible actual participation in the inauguration of the next Provident of practically every citizen in the land, who will be given the opportunity to really join in the celebration, thus personally impressing every listener with the importance of what is happening While helping Washington and imparting a better understanding of interest. the National Capital, it will help to It is well to cultivate a love for our traditions. This can be done only by observance of then. The doing away with the old-time spirit of inauguration day amounts to the robbing of the youth of the land of their birthabout them. Indifference will be followed by disregard, if not disrespect, will come to have no significance and will pass without thought or comment. This would be a great pity, as well as great loss, and would amount to a weakening of our national life and institutions.

Then, too, there is a vastly practical side which it seems to me is being overlooked and which I have not seen mentioned in the list of compelling reasons advanced for a return to the old-time inauguration.

On all sides we hear the apathy of voters deplored. Already means for getting out the vote next November are being seriously considered.

In my own efforts to get out the vote, among women and new voters particularly, in many States, I have been met repeatedly with the reply: "Oh, what's the use? It doesn't amount to anything anyway. Why should I bother to go out and vote for a President? It is not of enough importance any more to even have an inaugura tion in Washington now." Eight million young men and women will be eligible to vote for the first time for President next November. S HOW me your vocabulary and I will tell you what you are.

Man makes words and words make the man. New words make a new era.

When a new family moves into a neighborhood it becomes a center of interest. Its furniture, cars and manners afford topics of conversation. It affects the entire community-not because it is important, but solely because it is novel.

New words affect a community in much the same way. The decade since the war has given America a sufficient number of new words to transform a civilization.

Such words as "complex," "moron," "psychoanalysis," "libido," 'atavistic" and "sex appeal" are mere assemblies of letters with no apparent capacity for mischief.

But they were new neighbors in the community; they arrived just in time to afford a new topic of conversation for people bored by the dull-Tim Murphy, so apparently the Chicago attitude is that they can put you ness of peace, and at once they occupied the foreground of public

THREE NATIONAL PLAYERS F SEEN IN ROLLICKING PLAY

Charles Hampden, Edward Arnold and Robert Borister Share Comedy Honors.

IN "THREE WISE FOOLS"

"Three Wise Fools," in the persons of Messrs. Hampden, Arnold and Bris-

Naturally enough, it falls to the lot of Charles Hampden to lead the trio. Cast as a Mr. Theodore Findley, Hampden reaches new heights in the excellence of character portrayal, his forte. The role is that of a chronic grouch (not that Mr. Hampden is a sad sort of person); but it is a characterization that calls for all the fine posturing that is at the command of a player, and Hampden fils the bill. Supporting Mr. Hampden are: Robert Brister, who does a remarkably fine bit as Judge Trumbuli, and Edward Arnold who, as the doctor, sets another Charlie Yang characterization among the remembered roles of the season.

The action in the unfoldment of "Three Wise Fools" concerns the unromantic lives of a banker, a judge and a doctor who—having becoming critics in their infancy—have banded together to wage a fight against anything that smacks of happiness. In this fine frame of mind a ward is wished upon the three, in the person of one Sidney Fairchild. With the introduction of Miss-Fairchild the action begins to speed up considerably, running all the way from soft and tender love makings to the capture of an escaped convict. Mr. Squires has done a neat job of scene making.

Leneta Lane is cast as the ward of the "Three Wise Fools," John Warner, as the heroic lover; Dennis Connell, the sleuth, becomes confused at times but does manage to corner the crook. Adelaide Hibbard drawa a sorry lot, as the maid. Blilly Phelps might as well have been "voices in the wings" for all the good his short appearances did. And Helen Wallace, as a chambermaid, rounds out the list of favorites. John Shellhaas, Dana Williams and Arthur Rhodes are also in the cast.

"Three Wise Fools" is a good comedy, with enough interest in it to make one forget the suffering klosk just across the street.

COTTON IN CULTIVATION COVERS 46,695,000 ACRES

Stand Is 6 Per Cent Below That Reported July 1 of Last Year.

PRICES BREAK SHARPLY

(Associated Press.)

The acreage of cotton in cultivation on July 1 was estimated yesterday by the Department of Agriculture at 46,-695,000 acres, which is 11.4 per cent more than in cultivation a year ago. Owing to late planting, the depart ment announced, the need for repeated replanting in many sections and the npossibility of working the crop out at the proper time, the reported stand of cotton is 6 per cent below the stand reported by correspondents on July 1, last year.

The estimate of acreage, like those of previous years does not refer to the total acreage planted, but only to that portion remaining in actual cultivation on July 1. Allowance has been made in the 1928 estimate, the department explained, for about 150,000 acres of cotton flooded out in Arkansas during the last week of June and for a small acre. last week of June and for a small acre-age similarly flooded in Missouri.

New York, July 9 (A.P.).—Today's New York World says an important is announcement will be made in a few days concerning the romance of Ernest Whitworth Marland, of Ponca City, Okla, 54-year-old head of the oil properties which bear his name, and his 28-year-old former foster daughter, Miss Lydie Miller Roberts.

The World says it obtained its information from Marland Roberts, a brother of the young woman. He described reports of a broken engagement as based on "gossipy rumors," and said that the five months' postponement of the marriage has been caused by a nervous aliment his sister suffered after announcement of the engagement. Roberts declined either to affirm or deny that a definite time had been set for the wedding, or that the ceremony had already taken place.

acreage this season is greater than in 1926. Last year's area in cultivation on July 1 was 41,905,000 acres, and the quantity of cotton ginned from the harvested area was 12,950,473, equivalent 500-pound bales. New Orleans, July 9 (A.P.).—Cotton prices broke $5 a bale today in one of the most active trading sessions in several months. The Government's first acreage estimate of the season, showing an increase of 11.4 per cent in the area under cultivation on July 1, induced general liquidation and selling which ultimately carried prices down 101 points from the day's highest.

and no Roller Coaster Pleasure Lands. How can I keep busy and have some fun?"

My dear boy, for a city boy you are having the chance of a lifetime. Instead of paying for your entertainment you can get it for nothing. Instead of learning about the great out-of-doors from a book you can actually see it and feel it. Everything invites you. Trees, plants and flowers are blossoming and fruiting, offering you a most interesting pastime in watching them mature. Berries, fruits and nuts are ripening for your taste. Animals by their call or chirp or song, are asking you to view them with a field glass. In an anthill there is a lesson in socialism that you later see duplicated in human life when you study political in human life when you study political acconomy. In a song there is symphony. In a bird there is an aeroplane. In the changing colors of the sky there is a pleture. In insect life there is divine purpose.

You do not tell me your sge, so I don't know whether you would enjoy modeling or carving out of clay or a bar of soap or soft pine on stormy days. And I am sure your hosts would like to have you make a bird bath or a sundial or a home-made camp chalf for them. And it's great fun. I enjoy it myself.

And yours is a heaven-sent opportunity to study your own mind and thoughts. No strong youth should wish always to be entertained by others, by movies or books. All around you is the great story of nature. It is written in the great story of nature. It is written in the great story of nature. It is written in the successful blood transformed the first successful blood transfusion. Both Ants: "What did you do? Mosquito: "Well an mosquito performed the first successful blood transfusion."

It is written in the hills and streams, in the air and water, in the woodchuck hill you can learn something about tunneling; from an electric storm something about electricity; from a camera about nature; from a microscope about minute life; from a cance about balance; from swimming about buoyancy.

If you will listen carefully you may hear some such conversation as this at an anthill:

When we come to school through rain and slush or are wet and cold, instead of sending us home to our mothers to be taken care of, she wraps our feet in a coat and dries our cothes by the radiator. She fixes our cuts and bruises and when one of the class became sick she had a jar of soda in her desk for just that purpose.

Our teacher knows all our affairs and we know all hers. At least she knows all mine because I would rather tell them to her than to anyone I know we have that if familiarity makes angels like my teacher let's have more of it.

"Shuffle board" is played with disks colored red and blue. On the deck are painted two diagrams containing figures, from "1" to "10." There is also a space marked "10 Off," and if your disk stops on that space you lose 10 points. The disks are sent accoting by a push with an oar-shaped paddle. It is well to try to knock your opponents' disk off, if it is on a high number. Then you may get your own disk on the high number.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

When a film producer undertakes the making of a picture featuring a character of world-wide renown, whose likeness is familiar through publication in many prints, he faces a considerable problem in casting. The artifice of makeup may do in some cases, but it is more desirable to find the exact type, if possible. This, of course, makes the task difficult.

artifice of makeup may do in some cases, but it is more desirable to find the exact type, if possible. This, of course, makes the task difficult.

It was precisely such a problem that James A. FitzPatrick faced when he decided to make the "Schubert Series," featuring the life and music of Franz Schubert. The great composer of love songs must be interpreted by an actor of skill with a close resemblance to Schubert and, necessarify, one with some knowledge of music.

Froducer FitzPatrick engaged investigators to search for today's Franz Schubert. In due time they informed him that there was in Vienna one Franz Slavicek, playing first violin in the Vienna Opera Company, who was popularly conceded to be the physical counterpart of Schubert. So it is that today's Franz Schubert came to play his big role—and his first—and that when you view his performance on an American screen you will be rewarded by as close an approximation of the physical and temperamental characteristics of the famous composer as it is humanly possible to achieve.

Of course, it wasn't exactly planned that Mitzi would meet Dick near the flying field. Polly accompanied her just to show how much by chance it was that they wandered right over by his plane. Polly is wearing (not at all by chance) the most becoming suit of printed silk with frills bordering the neckline and the sash. Mitzi wears a polka dotted silk with a cape extending to the waist. The turban is flicked with white dots. They are all going to have tea. "Won't you join us?" casually asks Mitzi, confident that her invitations are usually accepted.

But not this invitation. It's too good a day for flying to stay on the ground is actually the sum and substance of Dick's reply as he leaves them to turn toward his plane. Mitzi is a bit baffled. The Goofer wouldn't have done a thing like that! She would have been annoyed more perhaps if her glance had not happened upon the blue and white polka dotted silk, the blouse of white and a handkerchief to match around the neck. The other costume is a two-piece one with the ubiquitous handkerchief collar attached to the dress. Mitzi decides that she'll have to know more about aviation and aviators.

arrive at the training camp here on July 20.

He is coming to give Heeney all the fine points of how to fight Gene Tunney and to help him all he can in his training. It is likely that the exchampion will do some sparring with Tom. Dempsey's presence here is counted on drawing thousands of people to the camp during the final week before the battle.

Tex Rickard is coming down the latpart of the week to complete the regular business with Heeney and his managers in connection with the coming battle. Rickard has $400.000 rep-

The challenger for the world's heavyweight title carried a full-sized grouch around with him today. When a fighter becomes grumpy and starts to find fault with his surroundings and the folks around his training camp it is generally the tip off that he has reached the peak of physical perfection.

But such is not the case with Tom Heeney. He hasn't been training long enough to develop a case of nerves. His demeanor today was attributed to the fact that he passed a sleepless night. Thomas hit the hay at his accustomed hour, but he got no more sleep than a night club hostess. There were three reasons for this, the heat and humidity and a flock of crows which held a convention outside his bedroom window.

As a result the New Zealander was up long before Phil Mercurlo, his chief sparring mate. After doing five miles of road work by his lonesome, Thomas was back in time to trip over to Mike Jacobs' chicken farm and wake up the roosters. It was much too warm to work in the indoor gym at the Rumsen Farm Kennels, so Tom took his entire training crew over to the West End Golf Club links at Long Branch for a round of golf.

Chicago Rally in First Ruins Day for Jones; Clancy Hits Homer.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH, (Sports Editor of The Post.)

THE Nats met up with Alphons Thomas again yesterday and the THE Nats met up with Alphonse Thomas again yesterday and the curse that this particular pitcher has exercised over Bucky Harris' teams for two seasons still lurks in his good right arm. Alphonse had only one anxious moment and he survived that in the ninth inning, when, with the bases full, Sammy West was unable to apply the finishing wallop in the most approved prep school fiction style.

The White Sox did not tarry with Sam Jones and won the game in the first inning. The final score was 3 to 1 and marked the third victory of the Sox in the four-game series here which ended yesterday.

Alphonse barely staggered across the finish line after a masterful performance in the first seven innings, in which he permitted only two hits by the entire Washington cast. Six hits was the Nats' total allotment and their first run was scored in the eighth inning, reducing the White Sox lead to a mere two.

Bud Clancy, the terror of the Nats' pitchers throughout the series, again made his presence felt, he had a part in all three of the White Sox runs, with a triple in the first inning and a home run to the farthest corner of the center field fence in the sixth,

Agitation for an ex-hibition match between the California The chief excitement was packed into the ninth and the Nats had the tying and winning runs on base to no avail. Sam Rice started off with a single to right, but Bucky Harris popped to Kamm. Red Barnes filed to Metzler for the second out, but Joe Judge singled to center, sending Rice to third. Reeves outmaneuvered Thomas after extinctions at the first two offences and motion match between the California girl and the French star, now a profes-sional, came to a practical dead stop tonight when it was announced the French Lawn Tennis Association had refused to issue a permit for such a contest. she would be willing to play Suzanne, "but the only thing that matters is whether the American Lawn Tennis Association would agree."

singled to center, sending Rice to third. Reeves outmaneuvered Thomas after swinging at the first two offerings and coaxed a walk, filling the bases.

One of the three previous hits off Thomas was a triple by West in the eighth and with Sammy again at the bat there was the hope, which died abornin'. With Thomas apparently shy on control, West drew two balls. Then he elected to wing at the next pitch and Willie Kamm edged in from third base to take an easy pop fly near the pitcher's box, ending the rally, the game and the series.

The Nats labored seven innings without the semblance of a run and only two hits. Only Barnes and Judge were able to send the ball to safe territory and Thomas walked none. He permitted no runner to advance as far as second base until West uncorked a triple down the right field line in the eighth.

Facing Sam Jones, the White Sox began the game as they had finished Sunday when they battered five Washington pitchers for 20 hits. Jones was soundly smacked in the first inning and the Nats were fortunate to escape with only two runs recorded against them. O'Neill to Hospital

New York, July 9 (A.P.). — Steve Coneill, veteran catcher of the St. Louis Browns, is in a hospital here recovering from severe cuts on the face suffered in an auto accident Friday night. Physicians who were alarmed over O'Neill's condition yesterday, when they feared an infection had set in, said he was progressing in fine shape today. He was showered by shattered glass from the windshield of his car after it collided with a truck.

O'Neill, who went with the Toronto International League several years ago after a long period of service with the Cleveland Indians, returned to the big leagues when Dan Howley, pilot of Toronto, took over the reins at St. Louis at the start of the 1927 season.

Hunnefield opened up with a liner over Harris' head and Clancy scored him with a triple to left field. Mostil popped to Judge, scored him with a triple to left field. Mostil popped to Judge, but Reynolds doubled to center, scoring Clancy. Kamm followed with a single past Bluege, but Reeves ended matters by starting a double play on Metzler's grounder.

Philadelphia, July 9 (A.P.).—The Athletics had a merry batting orgy today, clubbing George Grant and Billy Bayne for 23 hits that defeated the Cleveland Indians, 14 to 4.

George Grant, who had a string of seven victories without a defeat, had his record smeared and failed to last three innings. Three of the Athletics turned in perfect batting averages. SEEKS SATURDAY GAME.

Manager Snellings, of the Douglas C., one of the contenders for the the in section B, of the Capital City is seeking a Saturday game.

RE'S a bozo. Also, by the same token, the bologna agents are down, hook, line and sinker. All of which means "home on the chinstrap, Eddie." They do tell me the Seagram coterie have the old dough bag "cut" in Toronto today on ROLLS ROYCE. Taking a line through his race of Saturday in which he finished a bangup third, I must string along with the knowing ones. The boys also have a sleeper in ILLEGITI-MATE. This is a very fair sort of hide, one that will win his oats. He has been working well and is a contender. BONNIE KHAYYAN is also a sleeper. Is a very slow beginner, but the first time she breaks on her toes, there is liable to be fancy figgers hung out on the mutuel board. VALLAS figures next.

The Three Die Stehle have a same token, the bound and string along which "Lena" Blackburne, new Sox manager, has done

The Three D's Stable have a formidable entry

3 Lengths.

3 Lengths.

The Three D's Stable have a formidable entry in the sixth. As a matter of fact, they stand out as the best bet at this track today. The McLean Nusska, which suddenly found his racing legs, scored ar easy victory in winning the Hotel Embassy Highweight Handicap, about 6 furiongs, here today. Nusskan failed to stop today, with the result that he simply galloped along in front, running the distance in 1:09 4-5. He was quoted at 7 to 1.

Nusskan jumped away to the lead and sprinted tr the front, leading by three lengths as they swung into the stretch. All through the stretch Nusskan few away to win by three lengths. Extreme took the place by half a length from Charade.

Chicago, July 9 (A.P.).—Toro, the McLean Stable's crack 3-year-old changes and the simmer was not of a serious nature and that he expected to start Toro in the Marquette Handicap. Between the horizon today, looking for fifore worlds to conquer. While the fig brown colt came out of his victory in the 285,000 Lincoln Handicap Saturday sightly lame, Trainer Johnny Schorr said the aimment was not of a serious nature and that he expected to start Toro in the Marquette Handicap Between Landicap Bet

In the order named.

The closing spasm seems to narrow down to a pretty tight fit between GAY FARIE, which was bet on overnight, and CASTING. Both were commission horses on the occasion of their most recent start. You have the answer to all this chatter—in your lily white duke. More anon

CAN HIT

One change which "Lena" Black-burne, new Sox manager, has done which has helped his team, is to let "Bud" Clancy hit the ball. Schalk had the Chicago first-sacker bunting much of the time. In the three previous games of this se-ries, Clancy obtained six singles and two doubles. All he did yes-terday was to clou', out a homer and triple.

terday was to clou, out a homer and triple.

There was considerable comment among the fans yesterday when, with the count two balls and no strikes against him and Reeves having just walked to ill the bases with two out in the ninth, Sammy West popped to Kamm instead of trying to wait out Pitcher "Tommy" Thomas There are always several ways of figuring things—and always several chances for second guesses.

At this particular stage of the game, Manager Harris, rating West as his best bet, instructed him to hit any offering which looked good to him. West is a long hitter and, had he straightened out one of Thomas slants, might have cleared the bases and won the game. It was just one of the many cases in baseball where a player is a hero if he comes through and a bum if he deepy!

Women Golfers Play At Town and Country

At I own and Country

Mrs. William S. Corby, president of the District Women's Golf Association, has announced that a miniature golf tournament will be held today on the scourse of the Town and Country Club beginning at 9:30 o'clock.

All women players of the District are invited to participate in the event, which will continue throughout the day until the winner is determined through the elimination of the other players in the nine-hole contest.

Many of the fair sex prominent in golfing circles of the District have signified their intention of taking part in the contest. Post entries will be received up to starting time.

that he was not an amateur at heart and that his lecturing had violated amateur ethics.

Weaver further disclosed that several members of the two committees had violently objected to Paddock running in his now famous baby-blue striped running trunks, some going so far as to declare that they were a "symbol of his individuality and likewise a sign of his professionalism."

Continuing, Weaver declared the matter was referred to Gen. MacArthur only after Weaver as head of the Southern Pacific Association had threatened to withdraw all of his association candidates from the Olympic Team unless the matter was referred to the registration committee.

Weaver said the track and field committee had voted 5 to 3 on Saturday not to place Paddock on the team and only after hours of argument did it decide to refer the matter to Gen. MacArthur.

Meanwhile the selections committee which names the team had voted, 10 to 1, to make Charley Borah, Henry Cumming, Roland Locke and Jackson Scholz the offi-cial 200-meter quartet at Amster-dam, ignoring Paddock completely.

FROM BUSINESS

Her only consciousness was of the flood of rhythm which released the supple grace of her lithe body.

He was right. The frightful wood-enness that had chained her that aft-ernoon, vanished when she caught the tide of music from across the foot-lights.

"I've never been there," April replied, blushing in spite of herself. "It doesn't have a very good reputation." "Mother wouldn't let you, en?" he rallied her, tickling her chin—he never lost a chance to touch her, it seemed to April But then, she attributed it to the free and easy ways of the stage! to April But then, she attributed it to the free and easy ways of the stage!

"Well, this week you've kicked over the traces, honey. You aren't Mama's little girl any more. Tonight we're going to celebrate your emancipation."

So after the show, to the Little Red House eight of them went, all members of the cast at the theater.

April was a little disappointed in the Little Red House. It looked so innocuous, considering the tales that were told about it—just an ordinary roadhouse, painted red, with red drapes, inside, and red shades for the lights. If there were discount little rooms upstairs as rumor said, there was no intimation of any irregularity to those seated at the little table below. Ballinger ordered sandwiches and ginger ale for the party and whispered to the waiter at the same time slipping something in his hand. The latter nodded knowingly. When he came back it was with the sandwiches, ginger ale and something else, in tea cups. "Have to be pretty careful these days," he explained in a low voice. "They've been watching us pretty close. But "Til say we are!" Ballinger agreed." "Til say we are!" Ballinger agreed.

She forgot herself, forgot Ballinger, forgot the audience across there in the dark, of which she had been afraid ther only consciousness was of that flood of rhythm which released the And she danced.

Gradually she became aware of Ballinger—of the glare and then of the storm of applause

Again and again Ballinger pulled her back to the stage with him. The clapping swelled and continued.

"Why goodness, don't you think we've danced enough was allowed to the stage with him. The clapping swelled and continued.

"Why do you know? Stopping the show your second time on." Ballinger swelled and continued.

"Be stiffened angrily and he apo.o-gized. "Didn't mean anything, little girl. Just thought how nice it would be if we could have this dance all to ourselves."

"My goodness, don't you think we've danced enough together?" April said, tedding to make a joke of it.

a burst of enthusiasm had ordered more goods than they would be able to sell in six months. Then they buckled fown to the grim business of meeting the business debt.

They began to receive threats of lawsuits. To be sued, because they hadn't paid what they owed! That was the ultimate in degradation to this honest couple. Mary Low began to have sick headaches. April took her lunch, eating it in a dark corner at the library. They lived on practically nothing. And still there seemed no way out.

One warm day Mary Low came home

They lived on practically nothing. And still there seemed no way out.

One warm day Mary Low came home from the store so white and spent and sick with worry that April threw caution to the winds and told her of Dick Ballinger's offer. Mary Low received the tale in silence, though tears began to trickle down the pale cheeks. "Do you want to do it, April?"

"I'd like nothing better in the world," April replied, "and, of course, I would use an assumed name." But when a few days later Mary gave her consent, April saw, with a little pain in her heart, that it was in order to continue Harry's education that her mother had compromised with the powers of darkness. April's conception of Harry's call to the ministry, for which her mother was sacrificing so much, differed materially from that of the elder Lows, since she knew a great deal more about his social activities than they did. But te didn't occur to her to tell on him now, any more than it had when they two and Jerry Wellman were children together in the Ozarks, and Harry had led them all into scrapes, then nanaged blithely to be elsewhere when the blame fell.

She wondered about Dick Ballinger. What would happen when they were thrown together all the time? Would she be able to keep him at arm's length? She recalled with distaste his manner of making opportunities to touch her. Well, that would have to be managed when the time came.

April wired Ballinger: "If your offer is still open can come at once."

In tomorrow's installment Ballinger ecomes a serious problem.

Cheka Office Bombed; Roumanians Blamed [INGLISH CIRLS CALLED

Moscow, July 9 (A.P.).—The official Tass agency announced tonight that a bomb hurled on the morning of July 6 by two alleged "white guards" exploded in the bureau of permits of the G.P.U., formerly known as the Cheka, killing Michail Ivanov, a Red guard, and wounding another, Artemiv Volkov.

and wounding another, Artenia kov.

The agency says that the assassins arrived from Paris by way of Bulgaria and Roumania "with the cooperation of the Robmanian intelligence department." One of them, alleged to be Georgiv Nikolaevitch, a former officer under Gen. Wrangell and a graduate of an aristocratic military school, was killed in flight. His accomplice was arrested near Podolsk, peasants having aided G. P. U. troops in tracking him down.

Philadelphia, July 9 (A.P.).—Airplane bidge was introduced into Philadelphia today by Mrs. D. J. Quattis, fr., who entertained her bridge club in a five-passenger cabin monoplane 1,800 feet above the city.

The plane remained aloft about half an hour and eight hands were played. Mrs. Harold Vaalerius, with a score of 974 points, won the first prize, a gold propeller bar bin. Mrs. Mary Karb was second high, with 730. Mrs. Jane Stenken was the fourth woman in the plane. She and Mrs. Karb changed seats during the game.

FEW GOOD-SIZED GAINS SCATTERED OVER LIST

Main Body of Stocks Remains Rather Quiet-Buying Among Leaders.

PLANE SHARES ACTIVE

Special to The Washington Post. New York, July 9.—With high prices Am the rule, trading was relatively quiet in Am the first stock market session of the new week. With operations for the Am. rise, as has been the case of late, conducted on a distinctly discriminative basis, strength again was most pronounced in shares of companies whose business and prospects are favorable. Am Although a scattering of closely held specialities scored substantial advances, and am Am. business and prospects are favorable. Although a scattering of closely held specialties scored substantial advances, the main body of shares was content to more within a process.

to move within a narrow range.

The turnover feil just short of the 1,800,000 share level, and the session was interesting principally for the reason that it showed speculative activity still geared closely to the stuation in Strength and moderate activity marked the forenoon dealings and these were continued into the afterthese were continued into the after-noon, while money ruled at 5½ per cent, the renewal figure. But resump-tion of calling of loans by banks, fore-shadowing as it did the later advance. Am in the rate for new accommodation to 6 per cent, brought a flurry of selling which dropped prices back rather shaply in the late trading.

shaply in the late trading.

Stocks recovered readily enough when this selling had run its course, but the pace of trading nevertheless contracted noticeably, the market hesitating frequently in the final hour.

Early buying was concentrated chiefity in the recognized speculative lead.

Early buying was concentrated chiefly in the recognized speculative leaders, such as the automobile shares, led by General Motors; Allied Chemical, Steel common, Radio, Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward, where gains at the best levels ranged from one to nearly 6 points. Montgomery Ward was the largest net gainer of the group, rising 5½.

Steel common pushed to new high ground for the recovery at 141%, but lost the fraction subsequently and closed but a point net higher. The bidding for this stock was quite brisk at intervals, the strength here being accompanied by rumors that the corporation had been upheld in a tax claim of $35,000,000, but it was said nothing of the sort had been been been for the sort had been been been for the sort had been been been for the sort had been been been dear to the corporation. tion had been upheld in a tax claim of 385.000.000, but it was said nothing of the sort had been heard in the offices of the corporation where it was pointed out that any such news would come in the same manner as other similar developments—from Washington. Probably belated covering against tomorrow's report on June unfilled orders was a more immediate factor in the strength.

Some of the specialties, including Davison Chemical, Lehn & Fink and Houston Oil, were bid up briskly, but a few others were underselling pressure, notably Case Threshing, which lost 6½ points on the day. The copper issues were mixed, with Calumet and Arizona and Anaconda strong favorites and some of the others easing moderately. Merchandising shares as a group were strong, with McCrory Stores and Warren Brothers keeping pace with the mail order stocks.

mail order stocks.
Once again the carrier shares ruled quiet, with advances of a point or so in Reading, Canadian Pacific and one or two more being offset by a recession of 2% in Texas & Pacific on light of 2% in Texas & Pacific on light dealings.

The airplane issues were fairly active and Wright was bid up smartly for a time in the forenoon, but later came back 6 points from its early high level and finished 3% points net lower. Curtiss lost 3½ points on the session. Of the low-priced nondividend paying stocks, Davison Chemical was the brightest feature, rising more than 5 points to a level within ½ point of its 1928 summit, but later yielded 4 points, then came back nearly 2, to finish with a net advance of 3%. Added to a strong technical position resulting from important accumulation on a scale down during the recent decline strength was due in large measure to expectation, that its fortherester. strength was due in large measure to expectation that its forthcoming report as of June 30, covering a few months more than the actual fiscal months more than the actual fiscal year, will make an unlooked for good ahowing. The company is understood to have upward $48,000.000 current assets, more than i.alf cash, compared with current liabilities of less than

Perhaps if the raising of posted prices for Pennsylvania crude oil held the sig-nificance which once attached to it, the petroleum shares would have been more responsive to the latest advance posted for oil in that particular field today. For the good reason that Penn-posted for oil in that particular field today. For the good reason that Pennaylvania production contributes only a small part of the country's present total output the trend of price scheduled there is no longer as important as it once was. Some of the oils improved moderately but strength was by no means general in the group.

Pronounced activity was lacking in the foreign exchange market and rates as a general rule held close to the previous session's final figures. Stering, at $4.87 for cables, was dull but firm. French francs improved fractionally, as did German marks, and guilders moved up a point, but Swedish rates lost ½ point and Danish a point. Pesetas yielded slightly. In the Far Eastern group there was general easing off, with Japanese yen dipping 10 points and Hongkong and Calcutta bills declining 5 points each. South Americans were unchanged. The Canadian dollar continued easy at a discount of 1½ per cent, or past the po't at which it is figured gold could be shipped profitably from the Dominion to this country.

PRICE TRENDS CONFUSED

Fair Demand Develops for for Some Oils-Utilities Under Pressure.

FOREIGN LIST IRREGULAR

New York, July 9 (A.P.). — Warm weather, mounting money rates and the calling of $15,000,000 or more in loans by banks combined to keep the bond market quiet today. Total sales barely exceeded $7,500,000. Price changes were small and trends confused.

In the industrial group small calls small and trends confused.

In the industrial group small gains in Anaconda Copper 6s, General Motors Acceptance 6s, International Paper 6s and Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing 5s, the latter advancing more than a point, offset fractional declines in Dodge Brothers 6s, Goodyear Tire 5s, Anaconda Copper 7s, Bethlehem Steel 6s and others.

Increase in Pennsylvania crude prices created some demand for oils, Sinclair Consolidated 6½s. Barnsdall 6s with warrants and others closing fractionally higher.

Activity in the railroad group ap-peared chiefly among second-grade is-sues. Fonda, Johnstown & Gloversville 1/2s gained more than a point. Texas & Pacific and Delaware & Hudson 7s & Pacific and Delaware & Hudson 78 also closed higher.

Utilities were under pressure, Public Bervice of New Jersey 4½s sagging.
The foreign list reflected general market irregularity.
United States Government bonds were soft. Third Liberty 4½s, which are exchangable for the new Treasury 3½s, as well as the latter issue, declined. The Treasury announced that closing of the cash subscription on the new dissue does not alter its offer to accept third Libertys.

Kansas City District developed a decrease of $8,000,000.

All other leans and discounts reported by member banks in the New York District represented increases of $89,000,000, whereas the Boston and Kansas City Districts each showed increases of $7,000,000. These were partly offset by decreases in most of the other districts. A net increase of $87,000,000 was shown, however, in all of the reporting banks.

Holdings of United States Government securities increased $7,000,000 and $5,000,000, respectively, at reporting banks in the Chicago and Phitadelphia Districts, and declined $7,000,000 and $5,000,000, respectively, in the Boston and Richmond Districts, and securities declined at all banks. Total Boidings of other stocks, bonds and securities declined at all banks except those in the Cleveland and St. Louis Districts.

Districts.

Net demand deposits were $330,000,-000 above the June 27 total. Increases of $248,000,000 in the New York district, $31,000,000 in Chicago, $26,000,-000 in Boston and $19,000,000 in Philadelphia developed. Declines in time deposits in the New York, Chicago and Philadelphia districts were partly offset by increases in Cleveland and San Francisco. All reporting banks showed a decrease.

New York, San Francisco, Chicago Cleveland and Philadelphia showed in-creased borrowings from Federal Re-severe, while the Boston district showed a decline. A net increase of $157,000,000 was shown by all reporting banks.

Curb Review

New York, July 9 (A.P.).—Frequent shifts of speculative sentiment characterized today's curb market, but major activity was on the side of rising prices. Raising of the call money rate on the "big board" tended to dampen speculative enthusiasm. Trading was only moderate in volume.

Increases in Pennsylvania crude prices attracted fresh buying into the oil group. Special strength of Galena Signal issues was based on reports of recapitalization plans. Ohlo oil was one of the leaders.

Wireless issues were again in brisk demand. Spanish and General mounted to a new peak on reports that an American group had obtained control simultaneously with the announcement that the Imperial Wireless and Cable conference in London had approved a merger of Empire Radio and Commercial communication.

Commercial communication.

Motors were mixed. Checker Cab mounted to a new peak at 37½ and then reacted to 36¼, off ¾ net, on realizing. Durant ran up 2 points to a new high at 16 and closed near the top.

In the general industrial group, strength of Atlas Portland Cement, Adolf Gobel, Industrial Fayon (new), Midland Steel, Palmolive, Silica Gel, Swift International and Zenith Radio Swift International and Zenith Radio contrasted with the heaviness of Bancitaly, which slumped nearly four points, Lehigh Valley coal sales, General Baking, Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Tubize and Zonite.

Newmont was the strong spot in the mining group. Noranda was heavily traded, but broke five points, after touching 55%, then recovered about half the lost ground.

Producers and Refiners Corporation.

The Producers & Refiners Corporation is controlled by the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. and is a complete unit in the oil industry. During the last few years it has scaled down its properties materially. Changes have been made also in the executive management. This corporation has complete or majority stock ownership in a number of oil concerns which operate mainly in Wyoming and adjacent territory, though homa, and several other states. This company produces, refines, treats, distributes and markets petroleum and its products, and purchases, leases, and acquires lands, oil, gas and mineral rights in lands for its purposes, and in addition is authorized to act as a holding company.

Based on the consolidated balance sheet dated December 31, 1927, the indicated total book value, excluding $296,598 unamortized bond discount and expenses, &c., applicable to the 748,779 shares of common stock, amounted to $33,527,158.

TITLE CHANCES AT STAKE IN LEAGUE GAMES SUNDAY

Within Reach Of 4 Teams

Ross Council's Lead Is Threatened; 2 Twin Bills Carded.

Georgetown, Dreadnaughts Unbeaten in Section A.

Local sandlot diamonds will bristle with action on Sunday and the majority of the interest will center in the unlimited teams making a fight for the banner in both section A and B of the Capital City League. The race in section A is drawing to a close and in section B four teams are grouped for a fight to a finish. Five games are offered in section A and ix in section B, due to the fact that District Heights and Auths and the Clovers and Douglas A C, will meet in double-headers.

Clovers and Douglas A C. will meet in double-headers.

Several fine attractions are offered in each section. In section A, both Georgetown and the Dreadnaughts will fight hard to keep their records intact as these two teams expect to battle it out for the league banner on July 29. Sunday, Georgetown meets the Chevy Chase Nine and the Dreadnaughts meet the A. B. & W. Busmen. A game in section A, which is e. "natural," will be the clash between the St. Mary's Celtics and the Shamrocks. They have been bitter rivals for years and both may be depended upon to battle hard for a victory.

Games in section B may be the key by which one of several teams will emerge the winner at the end of the schedule. Ross Council at present is out in front, but if it should lose to the Anacostia Eagles, while Douglas Athletic Club and Auths or District Heights are winning a double-header, the race will become even closer than it is at present.

A double deleat for any of these hree teams and a victory for Ross could prove disastrous to the hopes of

Not to be counted out of the race, the Anacostia Eagles made a formal protest of their game with the Doug-las Athletic Club, played last Sunday, in which Umpire Hurley walked off the field with two men out and two strikes on the Eagle batter.

A meeting of the protest board and A meeting of the protest board and the managers o the two teams will be held in the next ew days and a de-cision arrived at. The Eagles protested on the calling of numerous plays throughout the game. Considerable rivalry and strife existed throughout the game as a victory for either side

Demar Only Survivor of 1912 Meet, With Mitchell-King Pushed Ray, Watson, Scholz and Paddock Representatives of 1920 U.S. Team.

NEW YORK, July 9 (A.P.).—The old Olympic order changes rapidly. Valson has cut his distance down from the 3,000-meter steeplechase in yone survivor of the 1912 brigade, Clarence Demar, the marathon veteran, and four others who saw service abroad as long ago as 1920. This quartet, composed of Paddook, Scholz, Jole Ray and Ray Watson, will be cut to a trio if Paddook is disqualified.

Fifteen athletes, including the five mentioned above, have experience in the 1924 Olympic behind them, so that the remaining 67 are making the voyage for the first time.

The cases of Ray and Watson are unique. Jole has gone up the scale, starting at 1,500 meters in 1920. Going as far as a 3-000-meter team racer in 1924, and this year a candidate for the first time.

Every match was well contested and gallantly fought. For four hours and ten minutes, through 63 games the team of Paul C. Harding and Joseph Rutley battled against Bob Burwell and Fred Dodge, only to lose the decision in a five-set match, 3—6, 10—8, 6—8, 8—6, 6—2.

Thomas J. Mangan and Bob Considine breezed through straight sets to win over Owen Howenstein and Edwin Dowd and produced the best courts by the decision. Howenstein's well-placed shots and sizzling drives to the back court marked the high spot of his teams' play and caused the victors much concern in the first two sets.

The match between Kip Callan and Lewis and Maurice Hoffman was called at the end of the third set on account of darkness with the sets two to one with Lewis and Hoffman in the lead.

A straight stretch of the "cloter Ringyaart," or canal connecting Amsterdam with Haarlem, has been determined upon by the Olympic committee as the course for the rowing competitions.

Till canal is so narrow that only two boats can row abreast, thus there will have to be numerous elimination heats. The course is 2,000 meters for effort long.

The idea of conducting the Olympic rowing matches in Amsterdam was abandoned because the North Sea Canal, the "Y" and the approaches to the Zuyder Zee offer no straight stretch long enough to meet the requirements of the proposed matches.

Writ of Error Given In Auto Pistol Case

The Court of Appeals yesterday decided to grant a writ of error in a case involving the right of a motorist to carry a pistol in an automobile. The defendant is Pomeroy Brown, who was sentenced by Judge John P. McMahon in the Police Court to 360 days in jail in January, 1923, on a charge of having the pistol "about" his person. This case hinges in the construction of the word "about," as Judge McMahon ruled that having the pistol within easy reach in the automobile was the same as having it "about" the person as denounced by the code.

Brown was arrested on December 12, by the code.

Brown was arrested on December 12, 1922, and a pistol in a holster was found in his automobile after it had been taken from under the front seat. The District government filed no opposition to the granting of the writ. Attorney James A. O'Shea appeared for Brown and will argue the case for him next fall. next fall.

Police charged that they had been bolsterous and had knocked children and other passengers around. Judge Mattingly imposed a fine of $25 on each and then suspended sentence.

UTILITIES COMMISSION TO SEEK TRACTION AIDS

Experts Wanted for Valuation of Capital Company in Fare Raise Case.

HEARINGS ARE ORDERED

Another session of the Public Utilities Commission was held yesterday, lasting all afternoon, without further action on the question of revaluation of the Capital Traction Co.'s property in connection with the application of that corporation for permission to charge higher car fare rates.

It is said that the commission is casting about for available experts to conduct the proposed valuation in order to reach an estimate of the cost, following which the car company will be assessed. No names of experts under consideration have yet been made street cars and buses serving these communities are operated by the Capital Traction Co.

A separate hearing on another date will be held on the same question as it affects Bradbury Heights. The residents of the latter place joined the others in their petition, but since the buses in which they ride are operated by another company, the commission took the view that questions relating to their service could not be canvassed at the same hearing.

WOODEN FLAG STAFF FOR DISPLAY OPPOSED

Veterans Protest Against Use of Poles Banned by Commission.

The District Commissioners yesterday received a letter from the Veterans Flag Association, protesting against the use of wooden flag staffs in displaying "Old Glory" along the curb lines in the downtown business districts on holidays and special occasions. The letter pointed out that a bronze viag staff, the design of which had the approval of the National Commission of Fine Arts, was leased and sold to the merchants for such displays. However, on recent occasions, members of the Veterans Flag Committee have noticed wooden flag staffs, a few feet oshorter than the bronze staffs planted along the curb line and marring the uniformity and beauty of the display. ETHELBERT STEWART CITES VIEW OF LABOR

Declares 13 Months Rent Would Be Offset by Additional Payday Each Year.

The national committee on calendar simplification took steps yesterday to determine how the various groups of professions feel about a thirteen-month year, and listened to an address by Ethelbert Stewart, commissioner of la-bor statistics of the Department of Labor.

Labor.

Appearing before the committee at the National Academy of Sciences, Stewart said that what worries the working man about changing the calendar is the thought that he would have to pay rent for thirteen months instead of twelve. However, Stewart said, he ceases to worry when it is suggested that he would also receive pay for thirteen months instead of twelve.
